Investors can take part in an investment that earns higher than average interest while providing seed money for competitive loans to United Methodists churches in Colorado, Wyoming, Utah and Montana. This enables United Methodist Individuals, Churches and Groups to live out God's unique call for serving by connecting faith and money.

Since 1960, the Methodists Helping Methodists Fund (originally the Church Extension Loan Fund) has never had a default and continues to help provide support for churches through loans, while also giving individuals an opportunity to be faithful stewards of God's financial blessings.
